Local business left in the wake of Card Lock shut-down

Chamber encouraging "Local First" shopping.

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

Local businesses could be left vulnerable as Didsbury's Shell Card Lock is shut down and boarded up later this month.

Shell spokesperson Jana Saunderson said the decision ultimately came down to economics.

"This particular site in Didsbury, I understand, is quite old and it would require really significant reinvestments to meet our current environmental and safety standards," she said.

"And with the new card lock opening in Olds this past spring we feel that we can best serve customers from that particular location."

But Didsbury Chamber of Commerce president Scott Puttick said he's concerned a one-stop shopping trend could see farmers moving all of their business over to Olds, and that would unquestionably hurt Didsbury business owners.

"Everything—gas, grocery, hardware store, all of those things—if you're in Olds filling up and you need something from the hardware, or something from the grocery store, it's like anything, you might as well go there, right?" he said.

Saunderson said Shell appreciates the Chamber's concerns, but that it's just not viable to keep the Didsbury card lock open.

"Site safety and environmental protection are very important to Shell and, as I

"It will have an impact and only time will tell how much, but I'm hoping that we can rise above it."

SCOTT PUTTICK

indicated, this particular location would have required really significant investments just to bring it up to standard," she said.

Unlike the Didsbury location, The Olds site is privately owned, reducing Shell's overhead costs, according to Puttick.

"They (Shell) said the one out here, there was no doubt that it would have to be ripped down and completely rebuilt at a cost of about $1 million," he said.

"So it's spend a million bucks or have no overhead, it's just an economic thing."

Puttick said large corporations don't think of the impact decisions like this have on other business, but wherever anything like this shuts down, it always has some impact.

There's not a lot the Chamber can do to prevent this from happening, but it's hoping residents will continue to support local business as much as possible and is encouraging the "Local First" approach to shopping.

"Some people are more community-minded than others," said Puttick.

But he hopes more residents will be diligent in helping local businesses out during this tough time.

"It will have an impact and only time will tell how much," said Puttick.

"But I'm hoping that we can rise above it."

Saunderson said it's too early to say what will happen with the Card Lock site after it's boarded up.

Didsbury Firefighter Tyrone Patton shares a laugh with a colleague as they pack up their fire hose after responding to a structure fire on 23 St. Tuesday afternoon. The call came when a resident returned home to see smoke coming from a wall. Fire Chief Rick Mousseau said a piece of particle board began smouldering after some plumbing work had been done. There was minimal damage to the home, but it sparked the curiosity of some kids walking home from school.

Terry's legacy

It was 26 years ago that Terry Fox first dipped his artificial leg in St. John's harbour, marking the start of the Marathon of Hope and touching hearts across the nation.

Terry may have been forced to stop running, but the marathon he began is still going strong as we carry on his legacy and dedication to finding a cure for cancer.

His endeavour sparked an incredible passion and served as a benchmark for other runs and fundraisers that have followed over the years.

It's not a lofty statement to say everyone knows someone who has been affected by cancer, and it seems the numbers just keep growing.

Last year over 150,000 Canadians were diagnosed with cancer and 70,000 died.

Terry's dream was to change that, but he knew he couldn't do it alone.

He called on all Canadians to do their part.

In 1980, with that ceremonial dip of the leg, Terry said "If you've given a dollar, you are part of the Marathon of Hope."

Since the first "tribute" run in 1981, Canadians have raised over $400 million for Cancer research, an amount that would very likely have made Terry proud.

His is a timeless story and on Sunday, Sept. 17 a new chapter will start.

Didsbury residents are encouraged to participate in the run at the Memorial Complex.

Pledge forms are available in various local businesses and at the Town office.

Registration will take place at 12:30 p.m. at the Memorial complex Sunday and the official start to the race will be at 1 p.m.

PONDERINGS OF THE HEART A mean teacher

BY MARGARET FRADLEY
for the Didsbury Review

I answered the phone the other day; it was our 7-year-old grandson. "Gramma, could you sponsor me? We are raising money for a special project at school and the Grade 2s are having a walk-a-thon."

"Yes, we can sponsor you. How much did you expect?"

"Oh, however much you want to give Gramma, but please send the cheque to me."

I wasn't sure what he meant, so he explained, "make the cheque out to the school, but don't mail it to my mom, mail it to me."

Now it became clear, he wanted to get his own sponsor and take care of everything himself. This dear little lad constantly keeps us on our toes.

Our daughter in Nova Scotia, who is a teacher, phoned to see how her nieces and nephews were doing in school. She got Caleb on the line and asked, "well, how is school going?"

"Well, you know Auntie Cathy, this year I have a real mean teacher."

"What do you mean by that?" his auntie questioned, smothering a laugh.

"She said she doesn't like disobedience."

So his auntie informed him that she didn't like disobedience either.

Now this presented our young grandson with a dilemma; his auntie didn't like disobedience, but she wasn't mean.

So I'm sure he pondered on that for a time.

APPLE A DAY Active weight loss

If you are not active while losing weight, you will lose some muscle along with the fat. The less muscle you have, the fewer calories your body is able to burn. This, in effect, lowers your metabolism so you have to eat fewer calories in order to prevent weight regain. To put this in simplified terms - A pound of muscle burns about fifty calories per day at rest. When you walk or do aerobics and diet, lean tissue loss, or muscle, can be as high as 40%. So, up to eight pounds of muscle can be lost with a twenty pound loss of weight. This calculates into a lower metabolism of as much as a 400 calories.

In order to maintain muscle mass while losing weight, you must strength train. When we think about strength training, we conjure up the image of weightlifters, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Bret Hart and the like. This is not the case. You only need to move a resistance greater than your body is used to. By doing so we can tone our muscles, improve bone strength, improve joint stability and decrease body fat. Imagine a pound of chuck steak and a pound of sirloin steak. The chuck steak is bigger because it has more fat in the tissue. The sirloin steak weighs the same, but it is smaller in size. It is smaller because it has less fat, a leaner cut of meat. When you strength train, you turn your muscles from chuck steak to sirloin steak, it is a firm, strong muscle, but does not necessarily look larger.

Some dos and don'ts -

Do get approval from your doctor before starting any exercise or weight loss program. Most health problems will improve with an exercise program, such as arthritis, osteoporosis and hypertension. Always, consult your doctor about what is best for you.

Don't forget to warm up. Benefits of a warm-up are increased blood flow to the muscles, allows oxygen quicker access to muscles, speeds up the breakdown of glucose and fatty acids, makes muscles more elastic and less susceptible to injury, reduces heart irregularities associated with sudden exercise, burns fat more easily.

Do alternate your workouts. Your muscles can only handle strength training three times a week. Alternate your workouts between strength training and aerobic.

Don't do too much at once. Start slowly and work your way into an exercise routine, especially if you have a pre-existing health condition - arthritis, fibromyalgia, hypertension, or osteoporosis. Know what your target heart rate should be and stay at it. A simple formula for target heart rate for at least twenty minutes, strength training on all major muscle groups, cool down and stretching.

Do a complete workout that includes: warm-up, sustained target heart rate for at least twenty minutes, strength training on all major muscle groups, cool down and stretching.

Don't eat excess sugar, at all times but especially when trying to get in shape and lose weight. Remember, one can of pop can contain as much as 12 tablespoons of added sugar. Statistics show the average North American is eating about 120 pounds of added sugar a year.

Do understand what you want your final goal to be and it will not happen overnight. Remember how long it took you to get to where you are; it may take you that long to get to where you want to be. You can not spot reduce an area of your body.

Don't forget to stretch after exercising. Benefits of stretching include decreased risk of injury and enhanced joint integrity, increased blood supply and nutrients to joint structures, better balance, coordination, and situational awareness, decreased risk of low back pain.

Old high school to be demolished

Catholic school no longer a possibility for Didsbury

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

The fate of the old Didsbury High School has been decided after months of speculation.

Roy Brassard, chair of Chinook's Edge School Division, said the building will be demolished once students and staff have vacated it.

ROY BRASSARD
chair Chinook's Edge
School Division

There had been rumours that the Catholic board might take it over, but in the wake of last week's announcement of a Catholic school setting up in Olds, it seemed to be left in the air again.

But Brassard said the DHS site was actually only a secondary alternative if the separate board was really stuck.

"It was never really on the table," he said.

So the question now is what will go in place of the old school?

"We usually sit down with the Town and work out something that is going to work for the town," said Brassard.

"We're not in the development business, but we would certainly want to dispose of it, so that's what's in the works."

Town CAO Roy Brown said Council has discussed the issue and is looking forward to sitting down with Chinook's Edge.

He can't elaborate at this point whether council is leaning toward residential or business development in the area, but he said Didsbury residents will get a chance to provide input before anything is finalized.

The same fate may be in store for the Olds High School once it's made the transition to the new Community Learning Campus.

"Eventually we'll move out of that site, and we have a playground on the other side of Hwy. 27, behind Dairy Queen that we will probably dispose of once we don't need it," said Brassard.

"Then we'll go through the whole determination with the whole school as to what use we could put it to."

Brassard said when looking at upgrades for both DHS and OHS, they needed so many renovations that it just didn't work, which is why both sites are being vacated.

The new Catholic school will start out with portable classrooms and eventually look for a more permanent home.

But Brassard said the Olds High building is an unlikely solution.

"Anyone taking an old high school like the Didsbury High or the Olds High, which is in the same position, would be faced with some pretty major renovations before it could be tenable," he said.

"A lot of these old schools aren't up to code as far as air quality and so on, so once we modernize it, then we have to bring everything up to code and in a case of the Olds High School, for instance, I think we were up somewhere around $7 million worth of renovations required, so it's a pretty onerous task for someone, like the Catholic school board, to move into and face those kinds of renovations."

But he said anything is possible.

"It's hard to say what we'll do with (OHS), but we'll cross that when we come to it."

When it comes time for the DHS demolition, Chinook's Edge will reclaim as much of the rubble as possible.

"A lot of those are the old style brick and very difficult to clean up, but we may be able to crush them up and use them for roadway in our other schools, in parking lots," he said.

The Town will advertise any public meetings planned regarding the future of the DHS site.

Carla Victor/Didsbury Review

MANY HANDS MAKE LIGHT WORK - Upkeep is a daunting task for the number of museum volunteers currently on hand. Archivist Joyce Gerbrandt and treasurer Joan Court currently donate more than 14 hours per week to the museum and it just isn't enough. They are hoping more volunteers will lighten the load.

More than 100 years old, the Didsbury Museum building is an artifact in its own right, drastically needing repair and modernization.

Rich history needs support

Museum volunteers looking for help

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

Driving past the old stone school building, Didsbury residents often comment on its beauty, but many haven't stepped inside since it became home to the museum in the early '80s.

It's been called the "best, well-kept secret" in Didsbury—perhaps a little too well-kept—and three women are on a mission to change that.

"I just think museums can do great things for people and it's just sitting there, not being utilized to anywhere near what it should be," said Shirley Dorin.

"It makes me very sad." Dorin has done her part, bringing her daughter and two teenage grandkids to see what the museum has to offer. The teens were less than thrilled at the prospect of a historical visit, but as Dorin suspected, they were surprised by the adventure that awaited them.

"We had only an hour and we had to drag these two in there, but when we were leaving we had to drag them out again," she said.

"They were just shrieking with delight at some of these mannequins and things."

Keeping any museum in tip-top shape can be difficult, and when you have only one dedicated person taking care of all of the maintenance and repairs, it's even tougher.

John Gerbrandt has been kept busy replacing windows and trying to deal with a leaky roof that has caused pieces of the ceiling to fall down, and he's getting frustrated by the heavy load.

His wife Joyce is one of only a handful of volunteers keeping the museum afloat.

"I get everyone I can in the family to help out," she said.

Her sister-in-law came up from Okotoks recently to help with a garage sale fundraiser, her brother-in-law, who is a plumber, comes and turns the boiler on, and of course John does the rest.

With their assistance and that of fellow volunteer Joan Court, the museum will continue to operate, but everyone is beginning to feel a little underappreciated and more help would definitely be welcome.

"We need money donations or people donating their labour," said Joyce.

"We had only an hour and we had to drag these two in there, but when we were leaving we had to drag them out again."

SHIRLEY DORIN
museum visitor

The most urgent things are painting, plastering and electrical work.

Government grants with matching dollar incentives are available, but they need something for the government to match.

They've held two garage sales and more help is on the way next month with a quilting fundraiser put on by Cozy Quilting.

And things are looking up with a new president committing himself to keeping Didsbury's history alive.

Dale Peters recently bought back the old hospital his family lived in 10 years ago and moved back to town.

Dorin didn't waste any time before asking him if he'd get involved with the historical society.

"I was so desperate, I couldn't wait for him to get home from holidays," she said.

"I went over there and I felt like a fool, knocking on his door."

But when she flat out asked if he'd consider being the new president, he was quick to jump on board.

"I nearly dropped dead. I wanted to go over there and just put my arms around his neck," she said.

"He said 'well this is absolutely my priority, this is a very important thing and it should have support."

Peters will officially take over at the Annual General Meeting Sept. 23.

And Joan and Joyce will continue their hard work because they know how important a museum is to Didsbury.

"We get kids in here and they haven't got a clue what half this stuff is and it's really nice you can tell them what it is and how they used to do laundry and things," said Joyce.

Joan said Didsbury has such a rich history that everyone should learn about and everyone who does has a great experience.

"People come in here and go 'Oh, wow, what a wonderful building.'"

If you're interested in getting involved, drop by the museum table at Showcase Didsbury Sept. 18 from 6-9 p.m. at the Memorial Complex.

Or at the very least, stop into the museum and see the treasures hidden inside that beautiful old stone building.

Terry Fox's legacy celebrated

Community coming together for cancer research

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

Didsbury residents will join Canadians across the nation in paying tribute to Terry Fox this Sunday.

The Marathon of Hope, started by Terry Fox in 1980 and carried on in his name since 1981, is now in its 26th year.

To date, the Run has raised over $4 million worldwide for cancer research.

Local organizer Brenda Hemming said more participants are always welcome, and pledge forms are available at businesses throughout Didsbury, as well as at the Town office.

The emphasis of the event isn't on how much you raise, but that you participate in Terry's memory.

Registration for the Didsbury event begins at 12:30 p.m. at the Memorial Complex Sunday morning and the run will officially start at 1 p.m., but volunteers will be on site until 4 p.m. for those who can't make it right at 1 p.m.

"I think that if we are going to find a cure for cancer, we need to put money into research," said Hemming.

In 1980, Terry Fox said, "If you've given a dollar, you are part of the Marathon of Hope."

TOWN BRIEFS

Council members were asked to sign up for a shift at the Town display table at the Showcase Didsbury event on Sept. 18 beginning at 6 p.m. This event is to show all newcomers and area residents all the volunteer groups, societies and associations in the area. This will give people the opportunity to "showcase" their organization and to seek out participants or volunteers.

Administration provided a report on the Management Team Incentive Program. Administration was directed to bring forward a plan for implementing the incentive program for all non-union staff for 2007.

Director Nick Thain of the Mountain View Regional Emergency Services presented a report to Council on the Governance, Service History, Statistical Information and Future of the Mountain View Regional Emergency Services.

The Town Rate Bylaw was brought forward to Council for amendments. Most of the rates were raised by 5% coinciding with the Cost of Living Allowance. Council granted 1st reading to Amend Bylaw 2005-12, and asked for changes to the Dog and Cat January Amnesty to provide a rate that would be at least cost recovery basis rather than free. Second and third readings will be brought back to Council on September 19.

The Cemetery Bylaw was brought forward for amendments. Chief Administrative Officer, Roy Brown indicated that a newly formed Cemetery Committee would be looking at the Bylaw and would bring recommendations for amendments at a future date. The committee would also look at the request which was brought forth in early August to have a bush planted at a plot in the cemetery where no plantings are allowed.

A Direct Control District has been developed for the Town of Didsbury by the Planning Consultants in Airdrie. It is proposed that the Town of Didsbury's vacant lands presently designated as Heavy Industrial be redesignated to a district that will maximize the use and assessment of the lands and that will also offer a buffer between the Heavy Industrial districts and the adjacent residential area to the east. Council granted first reading to Bylaw 2006-13 and Bylaw 2006-14 to amend the Land Use Bylaw. A Public Hearing is set for Oct. 2, at 6 p.m. in Council Chambers for the Public to provide their input.

Byron Sayer, Manager of Arena and Parks provided information on a new Town of Didsbury initiative to begin an "Adopt-a-Park" program. This program would invite members of the community to volunteer to work with the Town to maintain and care for our local parks and pathway systems. Recruiting for volunteers will begin immediately and a booth will be set up regarding Adopt-a-Park at Showcase Didsbury on September 18 at 6:00 pm in the arena.

The Prairies to Peaks Tourism Association is looking for office space for up to a year in the Town of Didsbury. P2P has offered to rent one of the upstairs rooms in the Didsbury Train Station. Council accepted the offer from Prairies to Peaks to rent 150 sq.ft. in the upstairs of the Didsbury Train Station for a monthly rent of $200.00 which includes utilities.

Council has received permission from CPRail to place a fence along 20th street north of 15th Avenue to help in covering some of CPR's debris. Council approved the cost of $10,849.01 for the purchase and installation of the fence and shrubbery. The monies will be transferred from the operating reserve budget.

Council directed Administration to apply for a Municipal Sponsorship Grant for Green Bins for the basic amount of $32,524 plus a priority bonus of $23,090.60. This grant money will be used to purchase Green Bins for the Town of Didsbury residents. These Green Bins are used to recycle compostable materials.

Feeding the world

Growing project builds economies

BY JODI STYNER
Didsbury Review

For people who have money, there's always food available, but for those who can't afford it, abundance is a distant dream.

But thanks to a group of local farmers, fewer plates will be empty.

Seven committee members comprising the Rosebud Community Growing Project gathered with a dozen area farmers Thursday to harvest 120 acres of grain that will go to people who desperately need it.

Jack Feenstra said the group jumped on board with the Canadian Foodgrains Bank because they shared a passion for helping people.

"We really had a burden on our hearts to see if we could find some land around here," he said.

When Wayne and Vicky Poffenroth moved to town, they volunteered the land rent free.

"This is really amazing, because often project committees like ours have to pay rent for land," said Feenstra.

"I always stand amazed at the commitment people have."

—JACK FEENSTRA
Coordinator, Rosebud Community Growing Project

"We offered to pay the land taxes but he wouldn't have that either."

Free seed, crop insurance and labour were offered as well, working out to about $100 an acre worth of donations.

"We get the maximum bang for our buck," said Feenstra.

This year that's even more true.

The Canadian government used to require the organization buy 95 per cent of the food in Canada to be shipped out.

"That made it very expensive to send aid away," said Feenstra.

But this year that figure was slackened to 50 per cent, so the grain will be shipped to High River and the money will go to the Foodgrains office in Winnipeg and, eventually, into the hands of farmers in areas of need.

"It helps the local growers because you don't compete," said Feenstra.

Alberta Coordinators John and Grace Karsten said the rule change is a huge boost to local economies.

Grace said a perfect example can be found in the Southeast Asian tsunami disaster, where coastal areas were devastated, but further inland they had a bumper crop.

"So we could buy from local farmers who had no one to buy from them because everyone was down and out," she said.

"It helps their economy, plus we get it to them faster, the food is what they're used to, there's no transport costs, and the dollar goes twice as far."

Now the Foodgrains Bank is expanding to implement more development programs that encourage self-sustainability and Food For Work programs that allow people to maintain their pride.

"People have dignity wherever you are and they don't just want handouts, so they don't mind working," said Grace.

"They'll learn how to do terracing of hill-sides, or to build a road so they can get market access, and they get paid in food."

The Canadian government matches the funds raised on a 4:1 ratio, up to $16,000. Last year the organization raised $7.5 million so they maxed that ratio out.

The project began as a Mennonite initiative in 1983 and has since expanded to include 13 different church organizations.

Locally, it's growing strong.

"I always stand amazed at the commitment people have," said Feenstra.

And when all the grain was in the trucks, he took a deep breath and smiled with the knowledge that a hard day's work was worth so much.

ROCK racers blazing a trail

Fastest Home Builder in Didsbury

Local business man, Dana Munn, is now the fastest guy on the ROCK Racing team and most likely the fastest contractor in Didsbury.

Munn owns DCM Homes by Design, all based out of Didsbury.

As well, Munn volunteers a great amount of his time to work with the young men in the ROCK Racing program.

Munn and his companies have provided such substantial support for the team that the boys felt they had to find a way to thank him.

As Munn has developed a keen interest in drag racing over the summer the guys felt the best way to show their appreciation would be to put Munn in the driver's seat of the Alcohol Injected 32' Bantam Alter.

Last weekend at Castrol Raceway they did exactly that.

Munn had no idea what was in store for him until he got to the track with the team.

"I got a little nervous," Munn admitted later. But nerves gave way to sheer excitement as he drove the car for the first time.

After a quarter mile pass in 10 seconds flat at 134 miles per hour Munn screamed, "Yeah baby, that's what I'm talkin' about."

Crew Chief Dustin Morrow and the crew did a great job of setting up the car and keeping it tuned all weekend.

Munn's final licensing pass came on Sunday afternoon when he clicked off a 9.21 second run at a blistering 143 miles per hour, the fastest speed the car has achieved this season.

Munn is now licensed for IHRA competition.

Everyone at ROCK Racing thanks Dana for his time and generosity and we look forward to seeing him back in the car soon.

Grizzlys never say die

BY BARRY WILLIAMS
Didsbury Review

With just two games played in the current 2006/2007 AJHL season, the Olds Grizzlys are showing they are a team built around character.

Displaying a never say die attitude, the Grizzlys mounted third period comebacks against the Fort Saskatchewan Traders and the Drumheller Dragons to salvage three out of a possible four points during week-end action played in Fort Saskatchewan and Drumheller.

In Fort Saskatchewan on Fri. Sept. 8, Scott Ringrose notched his second goal of the game with 57 seconds left in the second overtime period to give the Traders a 5-4 victory over the Grizzlys.

Down 4-1 early into the third period the Grizzlys scored three unanswered goals to send the game into the extra session.

With Grizzlys' netminder Matthew Wong on the bench for an extra attacker, Scott Kenway blinked the red light with just 15 seconds left deadlocking the game at 4-4.

Jordan Baker and Ross Whitford added the other markers for the Grizzlys in the final stanza.

Early in the second period, Dustin Moore notched the Grizzlys' first goal of the game.

After twenty minutes of play, the Traders held a 2-0 lead and at the conclusion of the second period, they increased their lead to 3-1.

Two of the Grizzlys' goals came on the power play while one was notched short-handed.

During the game there was a steady parade of players to the penalty box and the Traders took advantage of their scoring opportunities by blinking the red light twice on the power play.

Between the pipes, Matthew Wong stymied the Traders' sharpshooters as he made several brilliant saves in the third period giving the Grizzlys an opportunity for a win. Wong finished the game with 27 saves.

At the Drumheller Memorial Arena on Sat. Sept. 9, Kyle Dorowicz dented the red light on the power play late in the third period giving the Grizzlys a hard fought 4-3 win over the Dragons.

At the conclusion of the first period, the teams skated into the dressing room deadlocked at a goal apiece.

For the Dragons, Cam Lamoureux dented the twine short-handed while Grizzlys' captain Ryan Ekdahl notched a power play goal.

On goals off the sticks of Randy McMullin and Cam Lamoureux, the Dragons held a 3-1 lead after forty minutes of play.

Michael Penny and Dustin Moore rounded out the scoring for the Grizzlys.

Two veteran goalies, Grizzlys' Matthew Wong and Dragons' Jonathon LaRose stole the show as both netminders made several brilliant saves during the game leaving the sharpshooters from both teams shaking their heads in disbelief.

GRIZZLY GEAR — Dyllan Hasselberg, Grizzlys' forward Adam Ross, defence Ryan Ekdahl, and forward Dustin Moore and Shauni Hasselberg model this year's must-have Grizzly gear, showing how to be a loud and proud fan.

LaRose finished the game with 35 saves while Wong turned aside 32 shots.

According to Grizzlys' Head Coach/GM, Kevin Hasselberg, the roster selection heading into the 2006/2007 season was extremely difficult as the talent pool at this year's training camp was dented with productive players.

"I was very pleased with the talent at training camp this season," Hasselberg said. "The players all brought their 'A' game into camp which made it a very difficult two weeks for the coaching staff to make their decisions."

Hasselberg, heading into his second year as Grizzlys' head coach, indicated the selection for this year's roster was extremely tough.

"We had some key positions to fill this year and I am confident the coaching staff has made the right choices," Hasselberg added. "I like where we are sitting right now, we have a good mixture of veteran and first year players."

He said coaching staff wants to ice a competitive team, one which will compete in the playoffs.

"Obviously we want to bring back the AJHL championship to Olds this year and this will be our ultimate goal this season," Hasselberg noted.

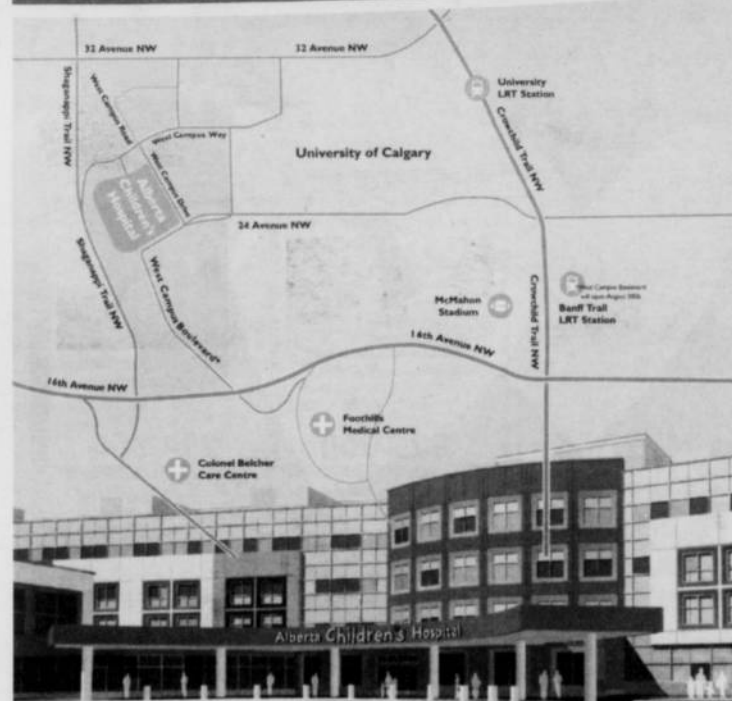

Because the Grizzlys have character players returning to the roster this season, Hasselberg believes the character of the team emphasizing heart, determination and dedication will be showcased early in the season.

And judging from the team's never say die attitude exhibited in the first two games of the season, the character of the team will only become stronger.

This Friday, Sept. 15 at 7:30 p.m., the Grizzlys '2006/2007 season home opener is scheduled at the Sports Complex.

Prior to the game against the Camrose Kodiaks, fans are invited to a tailgate party featuring entertainment by Denver Daines.

New assistant chief judge for circuit court

BY FAYE BAYKO
for the Didsbury Review

When Judge Robert James Wilkins steps into the position of assistant chief judge, criminal division in Calgary and southern Alberta on Sept. 16 he will join in the challenge of building a swift and effective justice system.

"Judge (Brian) Stevenson was at this for 15 years and that's always been a priority of his and I don't think the priority has changed much," Wilkins said in a phone interview Friday.

"That's a continuing battle that we're fighting, to try and cut down on waiting times for trials."

Wilkins was appointed through an order-in-council Aug. 30 by Justice Minister Ron Stevens to a five-year term and will replace Stevenson, who has been assistant chief judge since 1992.

Wilkins will be one of nine assistant chief judges who report to acting chief judge, Allan Lefever. Alberta Chief Judge Gail Vickery has taken a three-month personal leave of absence from her duties to undergo cancer treatment.

The chief judge oversees all court operations in the province while the assistant chief judges oversee certain areas.

There are approximately 112 judges in the province, 31 of which Wilkins will be responsible for.

Five of those judges have been assigned to the Calgary rural circuit, of which the Didsbury provincial court is part.

Wilkins, who was described in the press as being fast on the uptake and possessing a fair share of common sense, said he was pleased with the description.

"I think that common sense is a very important attribute for anybody, any judge that's sitting in criminal court."

Wilkins, who came to the bench Nov. 10, 2003, after spending 35 years practicing mainly civil litigation in Calgary, with an aboriginal law specialty, said the challenge of the position is in the variety.

"Here, it's totally different, to the extent that you're seeing something different every day. You don't have any warning as to what's going to be going on in your courtroom so it's a learning experience every day."

While he said he had no burning desire to become a lawyer, "it was something I was interested in and I followed it and it was the right choice."

He came to Calgary after graduating from the University of Alberta and joined the firm where he would eventually become a partner, Walsh Wilkins Creighton.

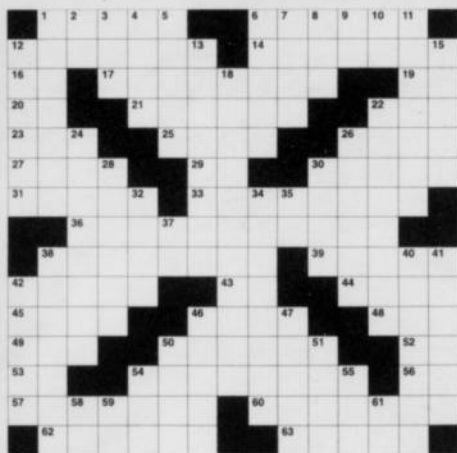

The rapid growth being experienced within the southern Alberta and Calgary area has meant an increase in some types of crime he said. "There's been a large increase, particularly in Didsbury, ... criminal youth matters have gone up a lot."

Another trend he has seen is drug-related cases. "With regards to grow ops and things like that, they require more trial time."

The court's role, he said, is clearly defined. "We're restricted on how we deal with them by the criminal code provisions," he said. "If you're asking if I think there'll be minimum penalties and that, that's up to the government to change the legislation."

Poker Rally great success!

Did you know the Town of Didsbury recently hosted the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association off-site meeting? The AUMA provides leadership in advocating local government interests to the provincial government and other organizations. Being able to host these elected officials from across the province was great and provided our community a chance to showcase all the great features we have right here in Didsbury. The Didsbury & District Chamber of Commerce participated in the activities by hosting a Poker Rally. Delegates and spouses went from business to business in town trying to make the best poker hand at the various participating Chamber member businesses. While in a store, the business owners had an opportunity to visit with our guests and some of them even made a sale or two. Eighteen businesses participated and delegates said they had never received such a fabulous welcome in any community! Thanks to the folks at Unique Stained Glass Works for co-sponsoring the Poker Rally.

If you are involved in a sport organization, service club or group, and are hosting a meeting or day conference, or even a sports event, don't forget to contact the Chamber of Commerce. We just might be able to put together something your participants would enjoy. Chamber members are also willing to come to one of your regular monthly meetings to address your membership on the various programs and projects the Chamber undertakes throughout the year, including the "Local First" awareness campaign.

Many stores in town are now sporting their new "Local First" decals, so when you see one in a store window, you'll know that business supports our community. For more on the Chamber of Commerce, please check out the website at www.didsburychamber.ca or call 335-3265.

It's a new year!

It might not seem like a new year to many of you, but to those involved in your Chamber of Commerce, we're gearing up for a new year of monthly meetings with our members. The first general membership meeting after the summer break takes place this Thursday, September 14 at the Didsbury Inn meeting room.

Members have been working over the summer on a few bylaw changes, the main one to change the fiscal year for the Chamber. This change will streamline our books and make everything more efficient all-around. Another is the possible addition of an Honorary Membership category, available to groups within our community.

Committee members for the Small Business Gala, Country Christmas, downtown Christmas Light decorations, Rosebud Run Sleddog Classic, and the Didsbury Trade Show have been getting ready for their events, and there are lots of new ideas floating around ... come to the meeting and hear some of the great plans!

Call the Chamber office at 335-3265 to book your spot. Meet and Greet begins at 6 p.m., dinner at 6:30 p.m., with the meeting to follow. Dinner is just $12 (plus GST). Everyone welcome - if you're at all interested in volunteering with the Chamber, or if you're just curious about what's going on in town, you are more than welcome to attend the dinner meeting.

Many stores in town are now sporting their new "Local First" decals, so when you see one in a store window, you'll know that business supports our community. ## CASEBEER

Elwood Philip Casebeer was born May 10, 1924 at Carstairs. He was the second son of Willie and Levinia Casebeer. The oldest son died shortly after birth. Elwood attended New Berghal School. He worked on the farm with his dad and brother and helped some of the neighbor farmers. He loved sports, ball, hockey and spend many hours playing cribbage. He attended many dances and spent many Sundays shooting coyotes. In April 1949 he married Betsy Christofferson. After that he did a bit of moving - to Calgary for a year, to Winfield for a year and finally bought a farm at Cremona where he lived for 15 years. In Cremona he curled, played cribbage and pool and joined the Modern Woodman Lodge and the Lions Club. In 1971 they sold the farm and moved to Didsbury. He worked locally for a while then got a job in Calgary and spent many years working there. After retiring he spent many days and nights playing cribbage until he won the gold medal at the Olympics. He also curled and bowled until his health slowed him down. He is survived by his wife of 57 years, Betty, 1 son Richard, 1 brother Mernus, 1 sister-in-law Joyce, many nieces and nephews, many other relatives and friends. Services were held Sept. 7 at Didsbury United Church. Donations to Didsbury Lions Eye Bank Fund will be appreciated.

In loving memory of

RON GOODING
who passed away Sept 22, 1985
Deep in my heart a memory is kept,
Of the one I loved so dearly and never will forget. But looking back with memories upon the path we trod,
I bless the years I shared with you, And leave the rest to God.
You have not really left me,
Nor have you travelled far,
Just stepped inside God's lovely house,
And left the door ajar."

Always in our hearts,
Dad & Mom and All The Family
